

Student/Classroom: _____ Examiner: _____ Assessment Date: _____

And Then What Happened, Paul Revere?

And Then What Happened, Paul Revere? Tells the story of Paul Revere (and) his famous ride on April 18, 1775, the (beginning) of the Revolutionary War.

Revere and (his) family lived in Boston, Massachusetts. He (was) a silversmith, a church bell ringer, (and) a dentist. Then he joined the (Sons) of Liberty to protest British laws (and) became an express rider, spreading news (between) Boston and Philadelphia. He was also (a) secret agent, trying to find out (the) plans of British soldiers in Boston.

(On) the night of April 18, the British (began) a march to the towns of (Lexington) and Concord. Revere's job was (to) warn people to defend themselves. He (had) to tell Patriot leaders John Hancock (and) Samuel Adams too.

Revere saw the (signal), two lanterns in a church steeple, (that) meant the British were sailing across (the) harbor. He rowed across the Charles (River) to where a horse was waiting (and) began his famous ride. He galloped (along) the Lexington road, waking people up (by) shouting and banging on their doors.

(At) one point, six English officers arrested (Revere), but later they let him go, (without) his horse. Revere walked back to (Lexington), where he found Hancock and Adams. (About) fifty farmers had gathered to take (a) stand against the British. The British (troops) arrived. A battle began. The battles (of) Lexington and Concord were the first (in) the Revolutionary War.

At the end (of) the war Revere went back to (being) a silversmith and opened a hardware (store). He also made church bells. But (he) will always be remembered for his (Big) Ride.

Student Name: _____ Classroom: _____ Date: _____

And Then What Happened, Paul Revere?

And Then What Happened, Paul Revere? Tells the story of Paul Revere (than, profit, and) his famous ride on April 18, 1775, the (seen, gotten, beginning) of the Revolutionary War.

Revere and (his, busily, sheep) family lived in Boston, Massachusetts. He (us, bad, was) a silversmith, a church bell ringer, (and, attention, refuse) a dentist. Then he joined the (Sons, coal, big) of Liberty to protest British laws (and, salt, include) became an express rider, spreading news (between, thread, danger) Boston and Philadelphia. He was also (substance, lazily, a) secret agent, trying to find out (development, the, square) plans of British soldiers in Boston.

(On, Doubtful, Develop) the night of April 18, the British (began, spicy, forward) a march to the towns of (it, Lexington, found) and Concord. Revere's job was (to, fear, cloud) warn people to defend themselves. He (strange, had, anyone) to tell Patriot leaders John Hancock (house, tempt, and) Samuel Adams too.

Revere saw the (always, signal, quaint), two lanterns in a church steeple, (torn, grow, that) meant the British were sailing across (not, the, written) harbor. He rowed across the Charles (fierce, River, balance) to where a horse was waiting (hourly, scissors, and) began his famous ride. He galloped (along, uneven, distinct) the Lexington road, waking people up (by, regarding, short) shouting and banging on their doors.

(Company, At, Frighten) one point, six English officers arrested (peace, Revere, hushed), but later they let him go, (without, brief., proud) his horse. Revere walked back to (remind, dull, Lexington), where he found Hancock and Adams. (A, Brain, About) fifty farmers had gathered to take (a, night, cautious) stand against the British. The British (troops, theory, plastic) arrived. A battle began. The battles (of, consider, hungrily) Lexington and Concord were the first (in, weary, bad) the Revolutionary War.

At the end (as, of, rat) the war Revere went back to (teach, shock, being) a silversmith and opened a hardware (store, baby, rode). He also made church bells. But (room, he, big) will always be remembered for his (Big, thumb, library) Ride.